The image shows a pizza with red sauce, cheese, and basil leaves on top. The pizza is placed on a wooden cutting board. The crust of the pizza has some dark spots, indicating it might be slightly overcooked or well-cooked. The pizza appears to be freshly baked and ready to be served. The basil leaves are scattered across the surface of the pizza, adding a touch of green color to the red sauce and white cheese. The wooden cutting board under the pizza adds a rustic charm to the overall presentation of the dish.

Based on the image description, there are no specific text blocks to note. However, I can confirm that the image is a screenshot from Tarkov's inventory menu, where various items and weapons are displayed. The colors in the image are predominantly purple and yellow, with some objects rendered in 3D graphics. The image contains a total of 30 items and weapons, distributed across 6 rows and 5 columns.

The layout of the grid is such that each item has its own dedicated space, allowing for easy identification and selection. The inventory menu seems to be well-organized, with clear separation between different categories of items.

Please note that this description is based on the visible contents of the image and does not include any speculative or imaginary content. If there are other specific details you would like to know, feel free to ask!
